Faculty to Supervise Spring Elections

Central Board Adopts New Vote-Counting Plan; Approves 53 Candidates

Ruling Body Declares Three Bids Invalid; Talcott To Name Fourteen Students, Seven Professors To Handle Balloting

In an effort to clean up spring elections, Central Board Tuesday adopted a plan whereby students and faculty will count votes and faculty members will supervise the ballot tables. The board also approved the candidacy petitions of 53 students for ASMSU and class offices and declared three petitions invalid. Bill Leaphart, Vigilante; Colin McLeod, Interfraternity, and John Sheehy, Interfraternity, were approved as nominees for ASMSU president.

The petitions of Max Miller, Independent, and Bob Fleet, Interfraternity, for Store Board delegate and Marjorie Templeton, Pan-Hellenic, for junior class president, were ruled out because they failed to meet the specifications set by the ASMSU constitution.

Miller's petition was turned in after the deadline while Miss Templeton's petition had only eight signatures of students who are eligible to vote for her. She had the required 10 names on the petition, but two of them were not members of the junior class. Fleet's petition contained one ineligible signature.

Will Appoint Counters

The setup approved by the board as a solution to the alleged tampering with the ballot boxes in past elections is similar to that recently advocated in an editorial in Tuesday's Kaimin. Acting President Frances Talcott, Nibbe, was given the power to appoint 14 students and seven faculty members to count the votes.

The committee will be divided into seven groups of three with one student reading the votes, one student marking the votes and a faculty member checking them.

It was also provided that four faculty members be selected to supervise the ballot tables and the transfer of ballots from the polls

Publications' Editors Chosen

To Edit Publications

Ray Fenton and Aline Mosby, both of Missoula, will take over the editorships of the Kaimin and Sentinel respectively for next year. The two were chosen in meetings of Publications and Central Boards Tuesday.

Boards Select Fenton, Mosby For Positions

Woman to Head Sentinel; Williams Picked as Sluice Box Chief

Central Board Tuesday approved the appointments of Ray Fenton and Aline Mosby, both of Missoula, for the editorships of the Kaimin and Sentinel respectively after Publications Board had recommended the pair in an earlier meeting. Editors and business managers of the three ASMSU publications were chosen.

Lucile Williams, Missoula, was picked to edit the Sluice Box; Bob Bennetts, Butte, was selected business manager of the Kaimin, and Ernest Crutcher, Kellogg, Ida., was chosen business manager of the Sentinel.

Mosby and Crutcher were sole applicants for the Sentinel positions, while Jere Coffey and Virginia Gisborne, both of Missoula, sought the Kaimin editorship and business managership respectively. Other applicants for Sluice Box editor were Helen McDonald, Butte; Margaret Thraillkill, Missoula, and Lorraine Griffith, Williston, N. D.

Publications Board also recommended, on a proposal from George Luening, Missoula, Sentinel editor, that in view of a loss of advertising for the 1942-43 Sentinel the business manager's salary be cut from $90 to $45. Central Board took no action on the recommendation but will refer it to the Budget and Finance Committee.

Their program will begin with "Manhattan Serenade," by Louis Alter, with Miss Faulkner at the organ and Mrs. Whiting at the piano. Next Miss Faulkner will play "Second Toccato in C minor," by James Rogers, and the two together will play "By the Waters of Minnetonka," by Thurlow Lieurance. THE ELECTION CAMPAIGN HAS SOME VIRTUES

If the present political campaign does nothing else but dig the skeleton out from the closet, dust it off and bring it into full view of everyone, it has still caused a good deal of excitement. Whether all of this excitement is justified under the circumstances or even desired is a moot question, but the average student is probably aroused as he hasn't been for years. It is likely a good sign, but we do not mean that students should revert to childish practices and an excessive amount of misplaced enthusiasm.

As has been stated before, the Kaimin has not and will not take sides in any campus elections, but the sniping away of self-abnegating groups at the Kaimin under the guise of moral issues seems to call for an answer whether we like to strike back at inconsequential things or not.

Our daily rival, the Vigilante, in its Monday issue accused us of explaining our stand on the mimeographed paper in a recent editorial and not on elections. In order to explain the latter, we almost had to explain our stand upon the communication and editorial dealing with the cleanup of campus elections in order to squelch rumors which had mysteriously found their way about the campus and which were directed against us in order to give the idea that we were prejudiced.

At no time have we stated or even intimated that the Vigilante's sole purpose was to drag down the University publication, as was stated in Monday's issue. We were not fighting the Vigilante and its stand on the cleanup of campus elections—in fact, we advocated it. What we didn't like was the rumor method.

Why the editor believed that "the Kaimin staff lost no time in spreading the name of the author around the campus" in speaking of the first unsigned Vigilante issue is something we cannot understand. And who he means by the Kaimin staff we are not sure, for there are as many divergent opinions and stands here as in any average group on the campus.

One result of the election campaign will probably be a record number of students turning out for Aber Day elections—something which we all certainly hope for.

Communications

So much has come to us in the nature of rumor and wild conjecture about the action of Interfraternity Council in suspending Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Chi fraternities, that we feel a clarification of the facts is necessary. So few people know the real situation that it is evident some explanation should be forthcoming from the council itself. We feel that 1,200 students have a right to know.

At the meeting at which the two were suspended last Friday, their delegates were asked by the council to explain their action in breaking the slate drawn up by the council, a slate which they had voted to accept in its entirety. One of their chief arguments was that the other five had run a coalition against them in the nomination of candidates. This would be a good basis for their action if supported by facts. However the real facts are not applicable to their stand.

On the day that the council was to meet to draw up its slate, the two fraternities called into one of their houses the delegates of two other fraternities. Here they presented a slate of candidates they thought should be the candidates of Interfraternity Council. The two ousted fraternities were to have the major offices very neatly sewed up; the other two were to have some other important offices and the leaveings were to be left for the other fraternities to wrangle over. It was figured that the four together commanded the forceful majority to put the candidates through the council.

It was very good and careful planning except that it slipped up in one instance—the two fraternities called in had the foresight not to be included in such a coalition, and voted independently at the regular meeting. There was no real organized coalition against the two houses whatever. One of the two was represented by four candidates on the slate and the other, by three—an adequate representation in comparison with any of the other fraternities. In the light of these facts, the two fraternities' charge of coalition against them is absurd.

Instead of accepting the outcome in good grace, as other fraternities have done in the past, these two decided things should be handled their own way. The result was the formation of a new slate with a long list of candidates and the subsequent ousting from the Council.

The Council faced the Phi Delta and Sigma Chi delegates at the special meeting with these charges which they did not deny. They were then asked to withdraw their slate which they refused to do. As is the case with any flagrant infraction by members of a group, the only course open was suspension. The unanimity of the other five houses' vote to suspend was indicative of their feelings and of the truth of the charges stated against the two houses.

Many stories have and will continue to appear in an attempt to distort these true facts, as they have been stated but all we ask is an open-minded and unbiased consideration of the entire affair.

Rising Sun Dims Grid Hopes

Grizzly Prospects Not So Black as in Times Past; They Came Out of It Before, They Can Do It Again

By JERE COFFEY

With 1942 grid prospects disturbed by the glare from the land of the rising sun, Montana sports enthusiasts are tempted to don rose-colored glasses after speculating upon the probable outcome of the coming campaign.

There was a time before, however, when the Grizzly growl was just a grunt, when the tough, bristly hair of the Grizzly was as soft as down on a duck. A glance into the archives of previous Grizzly grid frays shows that the humble bear was able to emerge from hibernation to the heights of football attainments. The Silvertip can do it again.

Practice Seasons Compared

Scrimmage rehearsals next September may emulate the first practice session of 1897 when 17 men checked out football togs. According to an old Montana Kaimin, George H. Bennett, who later became a prominent doctor, had the honor of being captain of Montana's squad.

F. B. Smith, a faculty member who loved the sport, coached the crude team. Because of a shortage of men, the mentor played half-back in some of the contests. No eligibility rules were followed, although the university soon adopted the policy of clean amateur sports, barring players not enrolled as undergraduates.

Butte Too Far

Students of the university argued that games should not be arranged with teams as far away as Butte, since debts incurred from such an undertaking would never be paid back. Smith persuaded the finance committee to give $200 to the first visiting team as traveling expenses. The initial cost was easily met after gate receipts showed a substantial profit.

Many men who reported for practice had never seen a football game, which made Smith's task doubly hard.

world of football states:

"The first Grizzly squad started in an era when rough and tough football and mustached players were entirely appropriate. Equipment did not carry the shoulder pads of today, nor the kidney pads, nor ribbed pants. Canvas vests were the vogue on the football field. A few of the players possessed cumbersome shin guards resembling those of a hockey goalie."

The article goes on to say that the pioneer team had no showers and an old saloon was the dressing room for the squad. Rules were not adhered to, timing was poor and playing periods for the four quarters often were lengthened or shortened, depending upon whether or not the Grizzlies led their opponents.

The first battle between the University and the State College in '97 resulted in an 18-6 win for the Aggie eleven. Not much can be found about the game itself, but from the amount of training that members of the two teams had, the results probably were obtained through power and not skill. The contest began what later developed into the classic Grizzly-Bobcat feud.

The football season of 1898 opened optimistically for sports fans. B. F. Seabright, a graduate of Stanford who played fullback for the Indians, was hired as coach and instructor of general athletics. The work necessary to raise funds to procure him was raised by solicitors and contributors from the student body.

Helena Trips Grizzlies

The first tilt for the season resulted in a defeat for the Grizzlies at the hands of Helena High School. Protests were made about the game because graduates and athletic club members played on the high school eleven. The Montana Kaimin of that date says: "The manager of the Helena team and the principal of the high school admitted that the University is entirely too strong for any team that might be selected from high school students, so they felt justified in playing outsiders."

Such are the records still extant of the early days of the Grizzly team and its modest start.

TX Wins 10-1 From SPE's In Softball Tilt

Theta Chi, cashing in on errors and seven hits, blasted Sigma Phi Epsilon for a 10-to-1 victory in the Interfraternity Softball League last night. Bennetts, winning pitcher, backed up by errorless ball on the part of his mates, allowed the losers only five hits.

Don Buckingham, Sig Ep starting pitcher, was knocked from the box in the first inning as Theta Chi willow wielders pounded him four runs. Jack Swarthout, relief pitcher for the losers, held Theta Chi to one run until the sixth inning, when one walk, four errors bunched with three hits brought in five more runs and put the game on ice for the winners.

Sigma Nu Defeats Theta Chi to Take League Lead

Sigma Nu pounded Theta Chi for a 9 to 1 victory Tuesday night in the Interfraternity Softball League, to take over first place in league play. The winners blasted Bennetts, Theta Chi pitcher, for 15 hits, two of which were homeruns by Bradeen and Schiller.

Kern, winning pitcher, backed up by stellar fielding, allowed the losers only 6 hits, but wildness at times put him in some tight spots.

George Erickson was the outstanding player for the Theta Chi's, scoring their only run in the fifth inning on a line drive to center field which rolled between the fielder's legs. Erickson's sensational one-handed stop of Sandell's line drive to right field ended a Sigma Nu rally in the third inning.

Adams Slates Track Meet

Harry Adams, minor sports director, announced yesterday that a novice track meet has been scheduled Saturday at 3 o'clock on Dornblaser field. The meet is an annual affair and is intended to bring out track talent among students who are not actively engaged in varsity or frosh track.

Any student who has never participated in a varsity meet, either here or in another school, is eligible to compete, Adams said.

Makin' the Rounds

By BILL HENDERSHOTT

During the past two weeks Montana football fortunes have definitely improved. Several of last year's Interscholastic grid "greats," who were befuddled by rumored fame and fortune received on larger campuses, have returned to the Grizzly fold.

Among the wandering boys are Gene Miles, all-state back from Anaconda, and Dan Yovetich, all-state tackle, basketball and Butte's one-man track team. Both played first string ball on the University of Washington's frosh squad but decided to return to Montana for personal reasons.

As yet, neither man has reported for spring drill. Miles is letting a knee operation heal and Yovetich is still on the sidelines due to a hernia operation.

Under the ruling set up by G-Man Atherton, these men who have been transferred, will be eligible for varsity ball providing they have completed 36 credits by next fall. Under the wartime curricula scheduled for the summer session, transfers will be able to continue with summer school and get the credits necessary for eligibility.

Every lineman has aspirations of someday being a great back. If you ever sit down and have a heart-to-heart chat with one of these so-called unfortunates, he will pour out his heart to you, telling how he never gets a chance to carry the ball and when the backs are frolicking around he is breaking his back in the forward wall. All in all, he says it's a tough life. Few of them ever realize their fondest dream, but just continue to envy the aristocrats of the backfield with none too pleasant thoughts.

The dream came true, much to his regret, for Milan Lazetich, burly Anaconda tackle. The other night in one of the inter-squad six-man games, Lazetich was playing end and on the kickoff who should receive the ball but himself. Lazo tucked it away and took off. For the first 30 yards everything went fine and he smiled to himself, thinking this was sure great, but about that time his shoes started getting heavy and his breath started coming in gasps. He staggered on, until by the time he reached the five-yard marker death was the only thing to relieve his exhaustion. On the three-yard stripe he was hit down for what seemed the last time, but recovery soon came and now Lazetich claims that any lineman wanting to be a back is nuts. They don't know when they are well off.

It is rumored there will be a new baseball and softball league due to the unfortunate mixup among campus fraternities. No official schedule has been drawn up yet, though it looks like it will be of the round-robin type. Four games will probably be played. The first game will be Sigma Chi vs. Phi Delta; second, Phi Delta Theta vs. Sigma Chi; third, Sigs vs. Phi Deltas; fourth, Phi Deltas vs. Sigs. After the regular season the two teams with the highest averages will play for the championship and it looks like Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Chi will battle it out for the coveted trophy, whatever it is.

Nominees Issue Platforms

"Skeff" Sheehy Colin MacLeod Bill Leaphart

Platforms are in vogue these days and rightly so. As a candidate for the office of president of the student body, I welcome the chance to outline to the student voters a plan of action for ASMSU during the coming year.

1. SUPPORT OF TRADITIONS AND PRESENT ACTIVITIES. The present war crisis threatens a drop in student enrollment, with a corresponding drop in the funds of ASMSU. Traditions such as Aber Day, Homecoming, Convocations, etc., will be the first to be affected. We must preserve these traditions for post war students by concerted effort, such as saved Aber Day this year. Self-supporting traditions, such as Sadie Hawkins Dance, shall be continued. The dramatic and music programs and productions, as applied to ASMSU, have an important place in student life and should be supported.

2. ADVERTISING THAT WILL ATTRACT STUDENTS. A program of constructive advertising such as will be outlined by a committee corresponding to the Public Relations Committee of this year is necessary. The sponsoring of conventions, debate tournaments and music festivals comes under this heading. Immediate organization of an active summer drive by home-going students to "rush" prospective enrollees should be mapped out.

3. CLOSER ASSOCIATION BETWEEN ALUMNI AND SCHOOL. The alumni should be enthusiastic supporters of our school, and want to be. Homecoming is one of the best mediums to reach alums. This is why Homecoming as a tradition must be continued, and if possible, broadened. One thing that we lack at present is an active state-wide alumni organization. This should be a goal of any long-range betterment policy. It is only necessary that the alumni and students realize it.

4. ADMINISTRATION OF ACTIVITIES AND FUNCTIONS. Appointments to committees should be made with an eye to ability and competence, with no respect to group affiliation. The good of the entire student body and the University is the first consideration in any appointment to be made.

5. ENACTMENT OF THIS PROGRAM. The program as outlined will have to be enacted vigorously. But with whole-hearted help, it can be done. If I am elected, I pledge myself and my best efforts to carry out this platform.

Having been placed on the Interfraternity slate for the office of president of the student body, I offer the following as my stand on the duties of the office which I well realize are very important to the student body and the University at the present time. I should hope, with the aid of the entire student body and the University administration:

1. To create greater interest of the students in the affairs of the student body.

2. To further the program started by the president to create better student-faculty relations.

3. To see that the University is given due consideration by the high school graduates of the state. There is no reason why the University cannot get those graduates to come to school here. This would have to come through the students who must by necessity be the good-will ambassadors of the institution.

4. Revive interest in fading school traditions as this is one thing that binds graduates to the school.

These objectives have, I feel, been neglected and are necessary to the University.

Should I be elected to the office, I would always strive to cooperate impartially with the students, fraternity and non-fraternity, so that the interests of the University and the student body could operate in student body as a whole and not for the direct benefit of any one group. Too many interested students turn away from service to the student body because less experienced and less capable persons are put in their place through the operation of politics. No reform movement, just a fair deal.

In my connections with campus organizations I have tried to be fair and I shall continue the same. All I ask is that if I am elected that the students cooperate as never before to make Montana State University second to none.

If I am elected I will pledge myself to fill the appointive offices of ASMSU with capable men representing every portion of the student body.

I hope that every student will vote on election day, because the results will then show the will of the student body. This is the fundamental step toward a representative student government.

I think the action of Central Board concerning the ballot counting showed a favorable student reaction toward honest and unbiased student politics.

This political campaign promises to be the warmest and most interesting contest in several years—may the best man win.
